

The Voice Workshop™ presents
*Overtone Singing - Vocal Improvisation
And An Into to Indian Classical Music*

A Workshop With
Rollin Rachele

Sunday, April 26th, 2015 - 10 to 5:30 pm

$120 per person

Location: The Voice Workshop™ Upper West Side
New York, NY

Rollin Rachele is an internationally known teacher and performer who is extremely knowledgeable about overtone singing. He uses a variety of tools to make overtone singing accessible, fun and exciting and explains how to learn it easily and quickly. He is author of a successful book on overtones (Overtone Singing Study Guide) and has recorded several albums to critical acclaim.

Participants will learn basic overtone singing skills and then integrate what they have just learned with others to do various kinds of vocal improvisation. Throughout the day you will learn a variety of techniques and traditions, which will expand your understanding and awareness of the art of spontaneous music creation. You will use what you have learned by engaging in group improvisations, sound sculpting and other creative exercises to free the musical mind and voice. There will also be an instructional period devoted to understanding Indian Classical singing beginning with Sargam (the do-re-mi of Indian music), raga development; and time cycles which will be combined with overtone singing by day's end.

Rollin holds a 1st Class Honours Degree from Trinity Laban Music Conservatoire (London), in Indian Classical Music Performance. He has made contributions to scientific knowledge through his work with academic establishments such as the American Laryngological Voice Research and Education Foundation (ALVRE) and The Voice Foundation of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, USA.

As an accomplished performing artist, teacher and innovator, Rollin's main musical passion is blending overtones with other music traditions, such as Indian Classical singing, Jazz and Gregorian chant. He has been instrumental in stimulating and guiding contemporary composers in writing music for overtone singers.

For advance online booking please visit www.overtonesinging.com or email at rollin@overtonesinging.com